

Holmfirth 60 at Wolfstones Heights Farm: Widths described by consultees

Various questions asked in informal consultation regarding widths available and used. NB there was an unintentional overlap in the phrasing of questions 1b and 1c).

Ref	1b "The width of the path the you used"	1c "How wide was the path that you used? - in feet or metres"	1d "Did you use the whole width available on the ground – or did you only use a narrower width, e.g. along one side?"	1e Did the width of the path change over time?"	Other comments regarding width:
	The section at issue was a vehicle track that was also the footpath.	3 or 4 metres	You could walk where you wanted across the width of the track	"No, not until the recent narrowing done with a fence running down the track"
					Described use with others: "4 a breast so it must have been quite a width."
	Minimum of 10ft	10ft	Whole width	"4ft path a to b is on wrong side does not match stile which is on the other side."
	"...the available width was that between the walls of the 2 properties down to point E."	Approx. 3 metres	"...We just wander down the middle 2 metres if two of us or 1 metre if I am on my own."	"Not until wall removed..." [Probably describing wall east of B1]
	"full width of the path between the farms."			"The width of the path has changed a couple of months ago with the erection of a fence midway between the farms."
	"...more as a track, probably at least 10 ft wide"		"I probably walked right up the centre of the track. "	"Only recently when the stretch leading up to point A on the map was restricted to about 4 ft."
	"wide enough for a fire engine to drive down."		"I used the whole width of the path"	No
	maybe 8 feet ?) but the part marked A-B is bordered by stone walls			Used with group "so we would have taken up the whole of the path available to us." "dismayed to see that half of the path had been fenced off. "
	"The width of the drive between the 2 walls of the houses/buildings i.e. full width which corresponds to the width of the metal gates at the top"	3 metres	"Likely to walk in pairs or threes, but possbly in single file as well."	"very recently the path has narrowed by the buildings. Cannot recall the width of the path leading up to that point i.e. from the field out of Netherthong"
	"...full width which was until recently (November 2020) 11 ft wide along its entire length..."	"For the last 34 years, the width of the path used by me (and by other walkers/pedestrians) was 11ft along its whole length."	I (and all other walkers I met along the footpath) used the whole of the width available (11ft) for the whole length of the path between points A and E.	"The width of the path did not change over the 34 years I have been using it until recently (November 2020) ..."
	"From the stile at point E on your map, the path follows a grassy track about 4 metres wide between fields, which to my memory have always been fenced in. This used to run all the way to point B "		"I have always used the full width of the whole path, often walking with friends and usually passing other walkers" farm. There was no narrowing imposed"	"From point B, the path always maintained its width to where it joins Wolfstones Road. It passed between the buildings on the full width of the drive that served the farm. There was no narrowing imposed"
	"The green lane in question was always the full width between the walls,12 feet or so right down to the field entrance at point A"[user was private in nature as a visitor?]			I used to visit owners [reacted],early 1980s It was always a full width green lane. The reduction in width to 1.2mtr is a very recent creation,during the past month or so..
	"While never having measured it the path has always been full width of the track. I would say between 3 and 4 m wide."	3 – 4m wide.	"The whole width was accessible for use and when using with others we could spread across whole width."	"Not as far as I can recall."
